SECTION I: LOOK BEYOND THE CRISIS

The crisis caused by the coronavirus pandemic has highlighted the liquidity reserve problems and survivability of Hungarian businesses, which is fundamentally influenced by how they finance their operations. Section II: THE TRICKS OF GENERATIONAL CHANGE

Transferring, selling or buying a business – these are easy to say but can be painful to execute, as the sellers say goodbye and the buyers make a long-term commitment. Through case studies we have collected, we will demonstrate the challenges and obstacles that require prior preparation, as well as how to manage these during the long process and what roles and responsibilities each actor in the deal has. We can also not ignore the psychological aspects: who can help in this process of separation, and in what ways?

Section III: DESTINED TO GROW - FINANCING INVESTMENTS

One potential reaction to crisis situations is grabbing opportunities, believing in growth, and therefore expediting developments and investments. Those who do so in time can gain a lasting competitive advantage. However, not all options for financing growth and investments are equal. Bond issue, central bank programmes, bank loans, EU or government funding, capital financing? We will outline each option and also show which one a domestic business picked and why.

After that, it is time for tangible and custom-tailored information. Participants at our conference may choose among 6 thematic workshops to gain practical knowledge from experts in an interactive form.
