Session I: Banking sector and credit market recovery from the perspective of state actors

The significant slowdown in 2023 could be followed by a recovery in the credit market in 2024. What could be the pace and structure of recovery? What are the government's and the central bank's promises and expectations in this regard? How will EU funds, the Hungarian Development Bank (MFB), and National Capital Holding take their share of the new funding cycle?

Session III/A: Consumer lending

Even with high inflation, consumer lending in Hungary has held up well, and personal loans have made a strong start to 2024. As a relative newcomer, the buy now, pay later (BNPL) phenomenon has also gained a foothold in Hungary, and the market as a whole is visibly expanding, with no small digital steps. Have the innovation opportunities and their business potential been exhausted, or are we on the verge of another consumer credit boom in the Hungarian market? What do Hungarian consumer attitudes and the potential of payment solutions promise? Senior executives from commercial banks' retail banking and credit intermediaries will share their thoughts with a professional audience.

Moderator: Kata Tóth, Conference project leader, Portfolio

11:50 - 12:05 The afterlife of unsecured loans - What has changed since Covid?

Speaker:

Tamás Lencsés, Managing Director, EOS Faktor

12:05 - 12:20 The buy now, pay later (BNPL) revolution in Hungary

Moderator: Péter Kuruc, , EY

Conversation participants:

Norbert Annus, Head of Sales, Cofidis

Kristóf Bán, Head of Mass Client Department, CIB Bank

István Szabó,

Gábor Tokodi, Deputy-CEO, FHB Bank

Session III/B: Project real estate lending

If there is a vulnerability in the global banking system, one of the first areas to be mentioned is commercial real estate finance. In Hungary, the risks in this sub-market appear to be much lower than in the US or Germany, but the banking sector is not entirely immune to the uncertainties in real estate demand, the price rollercoaster, and the challenges of the construction industry. How do banks and developers see the period ahead, and what problems are they facing in project real estate financing, including the office market and residential developments? The big players in this credit market segment will share their experiences and thoughts with us in the early afternoon session of the conference.

Moderator: Gergely Ditróy, Business Development Director, Portfolio

11:50 - 12:05 Commercial real estate: A time bomb in Europe?

Speaker:

Orsolya Hegedűs MRICS, Associate, RICS Registered Valuer, Head of Advisory & Head of Research Budapest, Cushman & Wakefield

12:05 - 12:20 Housing developments prospects

Session IV/A: SME lending

The number one area of credit promotion in Hungary is SME lending, and accordingly, in a recessionary environment, subsidised loans have largely determined market developments. But now that interest rates are coming down again, what can we expect from the SME lending market? What can be expected on the market credit front and how will pricing incentives work? Leveraged corporate clients, bank corporate business units and SME executives will exchange views in the non-real estate focus session on corporate lending.

Moderator: Kata Tóth, Conference project leader, Portfolio

14:00 - 14:15 Risks and side effects - challenges of the SME sector in 2024

Speaker:

Dr. Hajnalka Csorbai, Head of Strategy, Opten Kft.

14:15 - 14:30 Through crises - Leveraged transaction financing in the SME sector, 2010-2025

Speaker:

Gábor Szendrői, Deputy Chairman of the European Council, IMAP

14:30 - 15:20 Roundtable discussion on the state of SME lending

Moderator: Krisztina Bogdán, Head of Corporate Finance, Credit Management Group

Conversation participants:

László Ivan, CEO, Graboplast

Ferenc Kementzey, Deputy-CEO, Raiffeisen Bank

István Attila Szabó, vezérigazgató, Garantiqa Hitelgarancia

Róbert Szerdahelyi, Head of SME Business / SME Directorate, Erste Bank

Session IV/B: Home lending

The year 2024 has started with great momentum in housing lending in Hungary. But will lending rates continue to fall? What will be the impact of changes to home purchase subsidies, and what about government measures affecting household lending? How are home loan products and sales changing? What can be expected on the demand side and in the housing market? Does digitalisation help in the short term? Senior executives from commercial banks' retail banking and credit intermediaries will share their expectations and outline the challenges and business opportunities facing the housing credit market.

Moderator: István Palkó, Senior Analyst, Portfolio

14:00 - 14:15 Home lending is on the rebound, but how long will the momentum last? Positive trends and risks in mortgage lending

Speaker:

András Becsei, Deputy CEO, Vice President, OTP Bank, Hungarian Banking Association

14:15 - 14:30 Digital mortgage lending in domestic practice

Speaker:

István Huszár, Co-CEO, Bankmonitor

Session V/A: Macroeconomic outlook

The Hungarian economy concluded 2023 in a mild recession, with inflation coming off a European peak, and a high government deficit, only to start 2024 with a mixed performance, leaving considerable uncertainty about this year's prospects. Can we anticipate a strong recovery, and what can we expect this year in terms of GDP, inflation, the forint exchange rate, balance sheet indicators and financing? What macroeconomic developments will support or even limit the recovery of the credit market? Renowned economists and macroeconomists will share their thoughts at the closing of the Lending 2024 conference, in the form of lectures and panel discussions, similar to the whole event.

Moderator: Kata Tóth, Conference project leader, Portfolio

15:40 - 16:05 Global outlook: Reflationary fears and central bank interest rate divergence
